Stream Team volunteers needed

Are you concerned about the health of our local streams and waterways? Do you like to spend time outdoors? Have you been considering volunteering on environmental service projects? Then join the City of Federal Way Stream Team!

Stream Team volunteers spend about a half-day a month conducting simple water quality tests on local streams such as Lakota, Joes, Redondo and Cold creeks. This information is used in two ways. First, it tells City staff if there are any immediate water quality problems that need attention. Second, it allows the City to track stream health over time so we can observe trends in water quality and take corrective action if necessary. The Stream Team program is run by the City of Federal Way Surface Water Management Division. Stream Team volunteers are one of the primary lines of defense in the City's efforts to keep our local waterways clean and healthy.

To learn more or to volunteer, contact Hollie Shilley, Stream Team Program Coordinator, 253.835.2752 or hollie.shilley@cityoffederalway.com or click "Apply Online" on the previous page (www.cityoffederalway.com/volunteer).
